Hearing again for the first time

Rev. Dr. Thomas Martin

Throughout most of my life, I have been fascinated by the prospect of speaking in tongues. Most of that fascination comes from hearing stories about that spiritual gift or stories from the book of Acts, where the Holy Spirit descended on God's people and tongues of fire consumed those who were there. It seems very dramatic, but also very close to God's spirit. I can't say that I've ever really wanted the gift of speaking in tongues. It's just been more of a fascination.

I still have a fascination, but a better appreciation, for what that miracle at Pentecost in the second chapter of Acts truly means. If you read the story closely, you will see that the people weren't so much impressed by the speaking in tongues, it was that they were able to hear: "And how is it that we hear, each of us, in our own native language?" Acts 2:8

This Pentecost passage, in which we celebrate the birth of the church, isn't just a miracle because the Spirit of God descended like a dove; it's a miracle because everyone was able to hear in their own language. Think about that word, "hear." How often do you feel heard? How often are you willing to hear others? Not just hear them, but listen for understanding. One problem I see in our world today is that we have a listening problem. We don't listen to understand. We listen to win an argument or to wait for someone to slip up in what they say because it makes a nice headline.

How much different might our world be if we took the time to listen? What if we really sought understanding in our hearing? What if we, like the early church, find that the miracle isn't just speaking in tongues, but really making room to hear. It might just be like hearing again for the first time.

Good Grief Group

There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens: a time to be born and a time to die, a time to plant and a time to uproot....a time to tear down and a time to build, a time to weep and a time to laugh, a time to mourn and a time to dance. — Ecclesiastes 3:1-4

Several women of FFUMC who are moving through life after the death of their spouses, would like to regularly get together to support and uplift women who are also facing this challenging life chapter. We want to be present with each other to offer a smile, a hug, a listening ear, a shoulder to lean on, a laugh, and encouragement. If you are moving through this season of life and would like to respond in kind, please plan to join us each month on the second Thursday. Our first gathering will be held on June 9 at 6 p.m. at Partner's Pizza in Fayetteville. Everyone will be responsible for their own dinner and beverage. Questions? Contact Janet Baileys at jkbaileys11@gmail.com.

You Matter at SafeHouseOutreach

For years we have supported SafeHouse Outreach and the message it promotes to its clients who live on the margins in Atlanta: "You Matter."

Safehouse Outreach itself also matters. Recently, Cortland, an Atlanta company focused on multifamily development, enhanced the SHO space by professionally painting the exterior, extending the front porch, building a wheelchair ramp, painting the auditorium and more.

We will have a first-hand look at their renewed space at our next service night on Thursday, June 30, as we prepare more than 100 meals, transport them to their facility, serve it to the clients, and let others know they matter to us.

Want to be a part? Contact Randy Riddell at randyhr8@gmail.com and he'll let you know where you are needed most.

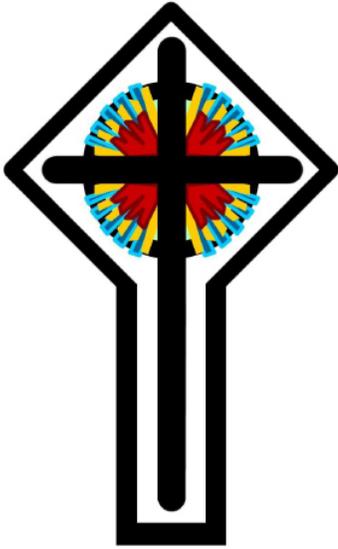

Photos show the enhanced space and the FFUMC team serving at SHO in March. You and your contributions matter!

Thank you, Church Family

Thank you so much for the Easter Lily you brought me. It is still pretty and I think of all of you often. I still miss my church.... Thanks again for your prayers and good memories. — Sara Johnston
